 2. Notification of findings to all relevant parties.
 3. Temporary suspension from specific roles, voting rights, or federation activities while undergoing further investigation for the Board Member, Volunteer or a member association.

Possible Extensions:

- For individuals: Sanctions, such as removal from board position or volunteer role.
- For associations: Sanctions, such as removal from federation membership.

Goal:

- Protect the integrity of the GSF and provide a deterrent against ethical breaches.

18.2 Why a Code of Ethics

18.2.1 Establishes Standards of Conduct

A Code of Ethics provides clear guidelines for acceptable behavior and professional standards. It helps members understand what is expected of them in terms of integrity, respect, and professionalism.

Having a formal Code of Ethics enhances the Federation's reputation. It assures stakeholders, clients, and members that the organization prioritizes ethical behavior and accountability.

A Code of Ethics can act as a safeguard against misconduct. It provides a framework for addressing disputes or grievances, ensuring fairness and consistency in resolving ethical concerns.

18.2.4 Promotes Unity and Shared Values

In a global organization a Code of Ethics can unify members from diverse backgrounds by establishing a shared set of principles that transcend cultural differences.

When faced with challenging situations, members can refer to the Code of Ethics to make informed and morally sound decisions.
